OUR EXHIBITION PROCESS

- New applicants for our Summer and Winter View exhibits must submit the attached application and (5) photos representative of their work in each intended medium to be juried by our Board of Directors.
- The decision of the jurors is based on a scoring system to rate the work for technical skill, artistic expression, and design. An artist must achieve an overall score of 80% for the work to be accepted.
- Upon acceptance, artists will receive a welcome email with further instructions for completing their contracts, working with our inventory systems, plus volunteer opportunities and expectations.
- All exhibiting artists must arrange to deliver their displays during the designated drop-off period for each exhibit. Pieces must be framed or packaged to a gallery standard, and wired to hang upon arrival. Pick-ups will occur promptly upon exhibit close.
- Artists are responsible for pricing their own work. In order to best assist you, inventories reflecting this and other information must be received prior to your scheduled delivery and setup appointment.
- AITL staff will assist with setup, gallery tags, and checking all pieces into and/or out of the gallery. We reserve the right to rearrange displays as needed and the right to reject any work(s) which are not representative of the juried submissions.
- All new artists begin at a 35% commission rate for one season. Prorated levels earned through donation or volunteering will be recognized in the following seasonal exhibit.
- The Juried Art exhibit is a themed, nation-wide arts competition, with a separate professional juror and additional online application process. Visit our website for more information on how to apply!

All exhibiting artists are required to sign and submit a full agreement outlining all instructions for exhibiting at the Loft. A copy of this can be found at www.artintheloft.org or upon request
